

Pearl Harbor Was Surprise To Germans, Trial Shows

By WES GALLAGHER
Nuernberg, Dec. 10 (AP)—German military leaders were urging Japan to get into the war in the spring of 1941 but had no idea the Japanese might strike an opening blow at Pearl Harbor, according to a hitherto secret German command order disclosed today at the Nuernberg war crimes trial.

American prosecutors laid before the four-power tribunal a directive signed March 5, 1941, by Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command, proposing a Japanese attack on Singapore as a means of "forcing England to the ground quickly and thereby keeping the United States out of the war."

That Keitel was reluctant at that time to fight America was seen in his warning that Japanese attacks be extended to bases "of American naval power only if entry of the United States into the war cannot be prevented."

Pleads Innocent
In a court session marked by the plea of innocence by Ernst Kaltenbrunner, once-dreaded No. 2 man in the Gestapo, American prosecutors turned to evidence of collaboration between Japan and Germany in spreading aggression throughout the world.

Records of a conference between German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka in Berlin on March 29, 1941, and April 5, 1941, showed that Ribbentrop disparaged the Japanese fear that American submarines based in the Philippines would endanger any Japanese move against Singapore.

In his directive in which he urged a Japanese attack on Singapore, Field Marshal Keitel wrote:

"The common aim of the conduct of the war is to be stressed as forcing England to the ground quickly and thereby keeping the United States out of the war. Beyond this Germany has no political, military or economic interests in the Far East which would give occasion for any reservations with regard to Japanese intentions. x x x

Kept Secrets From Japs

"In addition, attacks on other systems of bases of British naval power—extending to those of American naval power only if entry of the United States into the war cannot be prevented—will result in weakening the enemy's system of power in that region and also, just like the attack on sea communications, in tying down substantial forces of all kinds (from Australia)."

The Ribbentrop-Matsuoka conference records disclosed that Germany promised to attack Russia in case she interfered with Japanese expansion in the Orient—but Germany took care that her ally in the tripartite pact was not let in on the secret that an attack on Russia in June already was planned.

After Germany attacked Russia real urgency crept into pleas for Japanese entry into the war. A secret cable from Ribbentrop to the German ambassador in Tokyo on July 10, 1941, directed that pressure be brought to bear to persuade Japan to attack Russia.

Kaltenbrunner, recovering from a cranial hemorrhage which sent him to the hospital just before the historic trial opened three weeks ago, was brought before the four-power tribunal and declared: "I do not believe that I have made myself guilty."

Arthur E. Hale, York Springs R. 2, was treated at the Warner hospital following an accident Saturday when he amputated his right thumb and lacerated his right hand while sawing wood for John Chronister. He was taken to the office of Dr. William Flickinger after which he was taken to the hospital.

Miller, Gettysburg R. 3; Rev. Joseph Gotwalt, Fairfield; Mrs. Fred March, Gettysburg R. 3; Donald Culp, 350 York street; William Martin, Biglerville, and Mrs. Mary Bosserman, East Berlin. COLLEGE CLOSED AT NOON TODAY BY EPIDEMIC

With many cases of colds and grip on the campus and as a precautionary measure against further spreading of the epidemic, Gettysburg college closed at noon today for the Christmas holidays.

The closing came two days ahead of the date announced last week which had been advanced several days ahead of the date at the request of the federal government in an effort to avoid jamming of transportation facilities.

Postponement of the basketball game to have been played here between Gettysburg and Juniata also was announced this afternoon. The game will be played January 5.

217 Absent from School

A checkup this afternoon showed that 217 pupils are absent from the public grade schools and the high school today. No report was available this afternoon on attendance at the Gettysburg parochial school.

Superintendent L. C. Keefe said that attendance at the high school is much improved today with only 75 absent as compared with a "normal absenteeism this time of year of about 30". High Street school had 54 out today as compared with a peak of 61 one day last week. There were 53 absent at the Meade school and 35 at the Lincoln school building.

No plans are being made to close the local schools because of the epidemic, it was stated today.

The Warner hospital authorities asked this afternoon that visiting at the institution be reduced as much as possible and that persons with colds refrain entirely from making visits to patients there.

RICE DECLARES TOP POST HINT IS "SURPRISE"

When asked about the following Associated Press dispatch linking his name in the gubernatorial campaign in Pennsylvania next year, John S. Rice, recently discharged Colonel in the Army Air Force, today commented as follows:

"It is news to me, as it must be to many others. Since my discharge from the Army Air Force after three and one-half years' service I am not seriously thinking about anything else but devoting my time to my own business. It is highly complimentary to be mentioned for such an exalted position but it is all news to me."

Harrisburg, Dec. 10 (AP)—Democratic party leaders pushed talk of candidates for 1946 into the background today until the more pressing problem of selecting a new state chairman becomes finished business.

Important Meeting
Top chieftains will gather here for a luncheon next Friday to agree on a successor for David L. Lawrence, mayor-elect of Pittsburgh, whose resignation was to come up at a special meeting of the state committee here December 19.

"I don't think anyone is very eager for the post," commented one leading Democrat after indicating no new names have been added in recent days to those mentioned as possible choices for the state leadership.

"It's a hard job. If the party wins, it was because you have had good candidates. If you lose an election, it was the chairman's fault," he remarked.

Rice In Forefront

The name of former state Senator John S. Rice of Adams county remained in the forefront of speculation although friends of the recently returned Air Force colonel hinted Rice might be more interested in a place on the Democratic ticket next year than in directing the campaign.

"He has been mentioned along with federal Judge Guy K. Bard of Lancaster county as a possible candidate for governor," one friend said.

Rice has been invited to Washington to confer with U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey, who is expected to seek re-election. Neither Guffey nor other party leaders have disclosed the purpose of the talks.

Others Mentioned

Others mentioned for the party post include state Senator Joseph Barr (D-Allegheny), Senator Edward J. Coleman (D-Lackawanna), Commissioner John J. Kane of Allegheny and Michael Lawler, Lackawanna commissioner.

With Guffey apparently sure of a clear track for renomination for the Senate, talk of state-makers has centered around the gubernatorial place on the ticket.

Leaders continued privately to boom General Carl Spaatz, Berks county native, for the party's nomination despite the Air Force general's disclaimer of any political ambitions. In addition, the names of Auditor General G. Harold Wagner, Earl Harrison, Philadelphia, former U. S. immigration commissioner, Bard and Rice have been listed.

OBSERVANCE OF PARKING RULE IS "EXCELLENT"

Observance of Gettysburg's new parking meter ordinance, which went into operation at 8 o'clock this morning, was termed "excellent" by Chief of Police Robert C. Harpster.

"There were only a few machines parked in the meter stalls at 8 o'clock this morning and only two were really considered in violation. These two drivers, when advised of the new ordinance, immediately deposited the necessary coin or coins," Chief Harpster said.

"Two cars were parked in the square at 8 o'clock, and both of these drivers were town visitors who were not acquainted with the new ordinance," he said.

"The observance can be called excellent and I believe the general observance from now on will be very good," Harpster said.

Ample Parking Space

There was ample parking space all over town throughout the morning and early afternoon, but parking spaces in vacant lots and in the generally accepted free parking areas was at a premium. Most of the free parking areas were jammed to capacity throughout the day.

In the street blocks not covered by the parking meters, there was a noticeable increase in the number of parked machines, many drivers taking advantage of the free or non-ordinance areas to park their cars.

Borough Engineer Leroy Winebrenner reported one parking meter out of order. "It was a minor repair job that was completed in a few minutes," Mr. Winebrenner said. "All the other meters were in excellent operating condition," he stated.

Donald Jacobs, recently discharged from the Seabees after serving for some time in the Pacific areas, was sworn in as a special officer of the borough police force Saturday evening. He will check the meters for the next week or ten days and after that time will be on night duty, and on Sundays and holidays until Chief Harpster makes changes in the schedule, if he deems it necessary.

ACCIDENT TOLL LAST MONTH IS ABOVE '44 MARK

Automobile accidents investigated by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station showed a slight drop in November from the previous month, but an increase from the number investigated in November, 1944.

There were 17 accidents investigated in November, compared with 22 in October and eight in November, 1944. One mishap among the November, 1945, accidents investigated by state police resulted in a death. In October there were two fatal accidents, in which three were killed, and no fatalities in November, 1944.

In November, 12 persons were injured and property damage amounted to $3,853.50. Fourteen persons were injured in October, and property damage was $9,457, while in November, 1944, seven were injured and property damage was $1,780.

As a result of the 17 accidents investigated last month, 11 arrests were made. Outstanding causes of the accidents, state police said, were failing to keep to the right side of the highway; operating too fast for highway conditions and failing to give the right of way to other vehicles, under varying conditions.

More On Saturdays

"We have noted that the highest percentage, by days, occurred on Saturdays," the state police report said.

Operating with seven men at the substation here, the state police made 268 patrols, involving an operation of 11,000 miles during the month. In addition, 20 criminal investigations and 16 other departmental investigations were made; 36 traffic and eight criminal arrests were made.

Persons applying for operator licenses were warned that, as in previous years, applications contain specific questions as to whether applicants have been involved in accidents during the preceding 12 months. "It is compulsory that correct answers be given," the state police said.

An appeal was also made to the motoring public to control driving habits to avoid loss of life, limb and property by checking speed, by paying attention to traffic signs, lines and other road markings and by decreasing speed in conformity to the weather conditions.

"We are running into a season now in which there are sudden freeze-ups," the report pointed out. "Patches of ice cause hazardous conditions if not noticed by the motorist which can easily cause serious skids."

"Reasonable" Speeds

"While it is true that the speed regulation on the open highway is 50 miles an hour, at night time such speed should be reduced to 40 miles an hour. In other words, obey the old behest, 'Slow Down at Sundown'."

"In rainy or wet conditions a reasonable speed is between 30 and 40 miles an hour; if icy or snowy, between 20 and 30 miles an hour."

"If all elements are taken into consideration, we feel sure that motorists will not be handicapped some time or other by the loss of their automobiles, or the loss of time and money due to injury and hospitalization."

Attached to the Gettysburg substation are Sgt. W. Kurt Duhrkoff and Troopers George Evanko, George Ackerson, Frank Yercavage, Robert Deltrich, James Walsh and Carl Renz.

Each Driver Blames Other In Accident

END WAS GOAL OF HITLERISM

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP) World Traveler
London, Dec. 10—Ever since my tour of Germany at the time of the fateful Munich conference in 1938 this column has repeatedly insisted that Hitler deliberately set about to destroy Christianity in the Fatherland, substituting the pagan creed under which he himself was a Messiah, because he realized that no Christian would support his plot of murder and enslavement in Europe.

Concrete evidence that this was indeed the Nazi anti-Christ's program has now been placed in my hands here in London. This is in the form of an amazing secret report recently discovered in the files of the Reich security department in Berlin, and because I regard it as of the highest importance I am breaking in on our daily account of life in the British Isles in order to report it here. It represents one of the great Allied problems in the rehabilitation of Hitlerized Germany.

This document, which was for official guidance, analyzed the operations of the Oxford Group (moral rearmament) under leadership of Dr. Frank Buchman, and warned that it was dangerous to Nazism as an instrument of Christianity. The official files in Berlin also disclosed that directives for the suppression of the Oxford group in both Germany and in occupied countries were issued on the strength of the document.

One Blunt Line
"The Oxford Group," says the document, "as a whole constitutes an attack upon the nationalism of the state, and demands the utmost watchfulness on the part of the state. It preaches revolution against the state and has quite evidently become its Christian opponent."

Finally, in one brutally blunt line, it discloses the Fuehrer's purpose to smash Christianity in Germany: "They (the Oxford Group) encourage their members to place themselves fully beneath the Christian Cross, and to oppose the cross of the swastika with the 'Cross of Christ, as the former (the swastika) seeks to destroy the Cross of Christ.'"

The report reveals that the secret police regarded the Oxford Group as a force working "to bring about new political and ideological conditions in the Reich, xxx at the very moment we (Nazi officials) are making efforts to suppress Christian conviction of sin, which is regarded as the first step towards the enslavement of the Germans, a movement emanating from the Anglo-Saxons, who are racially related to us, which regards this consciousness of sin as a basis for a change in personal and national relationships."

"Primitive Arguments"
The document stresses the bond between democracy and Christianity, and says that "the Oxford Group supplies the Christian religious garment for world democratic aims." It adds:

"The group and the democracies supplement each other and render each other's work fruitful. They face the common enemy, that is, all nationalistic conceptions of life which democracy opposes and fights because of its political ideology, the Oxford Group opposes because of its primitive Christian arguments. Their common opposition to the modern conception of race and nation has brought them still closer together."

EXPERTS RUSH TO AID PATTON,
HURT IN CRASH

Frankfurt, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gen. Patton's condition remains critical, an official bulletin at 6 p. m. said.

By JAMES F. KING

Mannheim, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton lay partially paralyzed today in Heidelberg hospital as prominent nerve specialists were summoned from England and the United States to treat spinal injuries which he received in an automobile accident yesterday.

An army medical bulletin said that Patton's general condition was satisfactory, that he was completely rational and had spent a comfortable night but declined to forecast the probable course of a paralysis of the lower limbs resulting from a simple fracture of the third cervical vertebrae.

Hurrying to his side by transatlantic plane were his wife and a neuro-surgery specialist, Col. R. G. Spurling of Louisville, Ky. Already at the hospital are Maj. Gen. A. W. Kenner, theater surgeon, and Prof. Hugh Barnes, a British specialist who had flown from Oxford at the request of Mrs. Patton.

Struck By Truck

Mrs. Patton was expected to arrive in Paris tomorrow morning and go from there to Heidelberg either by rail or air.

An official army bulletin issued at the hospital said the fiery general had passed a restful night, sleeping five hours.

The accident occurred when an army truck reportedly turned off a side road into the autobahn (super highway) and crashed into Patton's sedan. Patton and his chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Hobart R. Gay, had left U. S. 15th Army headquarters at Bad Neuenahr yesterday morning to go pheasant hunting near Mannheim. Gay and the driver, Pfc. Horace Woodring, were unhurt.

Cut On Face

A combat engineering unit summoned by an unidentified Red Cross girl found Patton slumped in the rear seat of his sedan. An eyewitness said Patton's face was covered with blood from cuts suffered when he was thrown forward by the impact of the crash.

Patton was reported to have said that, though his neck hurt, he felt no other injury.

The fiery Patton, who reached his 60th birthday last month, has been commanding the 15th Army since Oct. 2, when he was relieved of his command of the famous 3rd Army, which he led from Normandy to Czechoslovakia. He previously had won fame in North Africa and Sicily. The 15th has been a "paper" army, primarily concerned with preparing reports on lessons of the war.

YOUR country's supply of industrial fats is so low that the government itself has to decide just how much can be released to make soap...and how much for other peacetime goods. If you let up on saving used fats, our supplies will go still lower, and the amount allowed for soaps may have to be cut accordingly. If that happens, you will find even less soap on dealers' shelves!

BULLETS LACE ALBRIGHT FIVE FOR 2ND WIN

Coach "Hen" Bream's Gettysburg college courtmen hung up their second victory in as many starts by wallowing Albright 52-25 in a game played at Reading Saturday evening.

After being held to but six points in the first period, the Bullet attack began to click and each succeeding period found the lead rocketing.

Top man for Gettysburg was Walt Kaczowski who accounted for 13 points. Joe Howard was a close second with 11 tallies.

Scoring was light in the first period which ended with the Bullets on top 6-3. At half time the locals had boosted their margin to 19-11 and from then on there was never any doubt as to the outcome.

Juniata Next For
Substitutions were frequent on both sides, Coach Bream using 11 men while Albright had three full teams in action.

The Bullets will go after their third victory Tuesday evening when Juniata will be met on the local floor. This game will mark the final pre-holiday tilt for the Bream-men.

Says Communists Oppose 'Spheres'

Yenan, Dec. 8 (Delayed) (AP)—Gen. Peng Teh-huei, vice commander in chief of the Chinese Communist armies, declared today the Communists "definitely oppose" any country obtaining a sphere of influence in any part of China.

Peng said he recognized there were elements and individuals in America—such as Patrick Hurley (recently resigned ambassador to China), former President Herbert Hoover and Sen. Arthur Vandenberg—who feared the Chinese Communists would affiliate with Stalinist Russia, but asserted that their grounds for such an assumption "never have been made clear."

"The position of the Chinese Communists remains still for a free-independent and democratic China," he told newsmen.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Chicago chapter of the baseball writers' association is threatening to award its "rookie of the year" trophy to Commissioner Happy Chandler. He rates it on publicity, at least. The Toledo Mudhens, one of two triple-A clubs still without managers for 1946, have offered the job to Mickey Cochrane, Charley Gehring and Pinky Higgins without getting a "yes." Report is that George Selkirk has the inside track for the other good minor spot at Newark.

GRIMM CONSEQUENCES

Charley Grimm, the Cubs manager, tells about his "best performance" hitting against Dutch Reuther. . . . Charley hoisted a pop fly so easy that every man in the infield hollered for it. . . . The next time Grimm came to the plate, Reuther called time, walked up to the plate and warned: "Get ready to hit the dirt." . . . "Why?" asked Cholly. "You're beginning to hit me," Dutch replied.

SWINGING A WIDE LOOP

The reason the big ten put in those provisions about playing six conference foes in football—two at home—was to assure schedules for Purdue and Indiana. . . . If George Milkan, the tall De Paul basketball center, ever shows signs of falling down on his high-scoring performances, he may be replaced by his equally tall brother, Eddie. The scoring duels between these co-owners of a Joliet, Ill., roller skating rink are almost nightly features at DePaul's practices.

OBSERVATION POST

The Cards' Eddie Dyer maintains that the biggest trade consummated at last week's minor league meetings was when Frankie Frisch swapped a set of table linen to Casey Stengel for three turkeys. . . . It's hardly an unusual deal—plenty of them turn out to be turkeys.

Missoula, Mont. (AP)—Whether eggs sell by the pound or by the dozen doesn't matter a whit to an enterprising Missoula hen. She can lay one-fourth of either at a single sitting. A New Hampshire red hen owned by Glenn R. Neisinger recently laid a "triple" egg, weighing four ounces and having three yolks.

CZARIST POWER MAY BE TAKEN FROM CHANDLER

By JIMMY JORDAN

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—Major league baseball moguls who last spring elected Kentucky's A. B. (Happy) Chandler to the commission of baseball expect some sort of debate here this week over just what powers the late K. M. Landis' successor will wield.

A breach between the men who pay the bills and the new "czar" slowly has been developing and at last week's minor league meeting in Columbus, O., virtually reached open warfare.

That argument is being carried over into the three-day meeting of the annual mid-winter gathering.

Already the major club owners seem on the way to eliminating the clause which gives Chandler the power to overrule any legislation deemed "detrimental to baseball." The minors eliminated that clause last week. The majors don't want it either. This authority was Landis' biggest stick.

However, talk around the hotel lobbies indicated Chandler and the club representatives would reach a "middle road" agreement on the scope of his authority.

It seemed more than likely that managers would wait until spring training to see how returning servicemen work out before making many deals.

Hershey Lead Is Slashed By Defeat

(By The Associated Press)

Hershey's once-comfortable first-place lead in the eastern division of the American Hockey league was all but washed away today as a result of the Bears' 3-2 defeat by Indianapolis and second-place Buffalo's 6-3 victory over New Haven.

At the conclusion of last night's four-game program the Bears found themselves holding onto the top eastern berth by a scant one point, 29 to Buffalo's 28. The Bears were faced with the prospect of falling out of the lead for the first time by the end of the week, especially with a game against the Bisons coming up Sunday.

Pittsburgh, runner-up to the Capitals, outlasted Providence 4-1 for the Reds' third straight defeat.

The picture was taken in the States because it shows Moore wearing civilian shoes and his civilian glasses, items which he has not worn since leaving this country a year and a half ago. Furthermore, he has no knowledge of the picture being taken.

REDSKINS TAKE EASTERN TITLE

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—With their fifth eastern title tucked away, Washington's Redskins turned their eyes westward today for next Sunday's professional football championship clash with the Cleveland Rams. Field General Sammy Baugh and his mates won the right to tackle the youthful western champions by clinching the eastern crown yesterday in a 17-0 victory over New York's Giants.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was in the capacity crowd of 34,788 spectators who saw the Redskins smother the Giants' attack.

The Redskins owe a debt of gratitude to these same Giants for upsetting Philadelphia's Eagles, 26-21, a week ago, leaving Washington on top of the divisional heap of the National league.

Philadelphia also wound up its regular season yesterday by romping over Boston's Yanks, 35-7, as sturdy Steve Van Buren dashed over the goal line three times. The victory put the Eagles in second place by one game.

When the Redskins take on the Rams next Sunday, a pro record crowd of 80,000 is expected in Cleveland's vast Municipal stadium.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 10 (AP) Two Armstrong county rifle clubs, Spring Church and Buffalo Creek, have been granted franchises in the Allegheny Valley Rifle league which opens its indoor match season January 4.

Other clubs in the loop are Oakmont American Legion, New Kensington, Tarentum, Vandergrift, Ford City and Kittanning.

SANTA AND THE WHITE BUNNY

Chapter 5

A Magic Land

By morning David had put many miles between himself and the terrible town where his sister had been locked in the Zoo. But his heart was very heavy because he knew that Christmas was not far off and if the giddy spell was not broken by Christmas day then his little sister would become a white hippopotamus forevermore.

"And suppose I do find Santa," he thought. "How would he find the time to help me when he's so busy getting ready for Christmas?" And a tiny little voice deep inside him whispered, "Especially when you said such horrid things about him!"

Well, there was nothing for it but to keep walking in a northerly direction. This he did for what seemed like months but was really only several days.

Finally, on the fifth day he realized that for a long time he had come to no village, passed no farm house, seen no traveller on the road.

He did not know it but he had passed beyond the boundaries of the kind of world he had always known. He had now come into a land where everything was Good.

A river travelled beside the road and there were boats on the river and boats along the bank. David thought it might be all right if he got in one and sailed part of the way for he was very tired.

As soon as he had stepped aboard one of the empty boats it started off and gaily skimmed the water. David was very excited and tried to hail the people in the other ships but he was suddenly so very tired that he dropped off to sleep.

When he woke the little boat had come to shore again and the bank was crowded with people. They ran down and helped the boy come ashore. But what strange people they were! David could not imagine who they might be.

"They shouted, 'Who are you?' And when he didn't answer they began talking excitedly among themselves. 'He has a bunny but that doesn't explain anything,' cried a boy who was dressed in blue from top to toe.

"He must have something to do with Easter," guessed another boy—and this lad was walking around carrying a whole pie in his hand!"

"Now, let him catch his breath," admonished a lady who was sitting on a goose. "One can see he is too astonished to speak."

Which was really true but still David managed to say, "I am David."

There was silence. Then voices: "David? Never heard of him. Can't think of a David in all the tales I know."

Now David was about to cry with chagrin so he turned to the lady who was sitting on a goose and told her how Mary was turned into a bunny and how he was on his way to Santa to have the spell broken. Again there was silence. Then the gayest laughter! Everyone crowded around him and the goose lady took his hand and said, "You have come to the right place, lad."

Judge William B. Purvis to 2½ to five years in the Western Penitentiary on two counts of embezzlement. Underwood was also fined $1,000.

This is the Land of Fairy Tale Folk. See, here is Jack Horner," and she pointed to the boy who had the pie. "And here is little Boy Blue. And of course, I am Mother Goose. And—well, surely you recognize all the rest."

And, of course, David did. There was Cinderella and Red Riding Hood and Simple Simon and the Gingerbread Boy and Goldenlocks and Miss Muffet and Tommy Tucker and just about everyone you could think of out of your Fairy Tale books.

Then there was loud laughter at the top of the bank and looking up David saw the Seven Dwarfs and standing in their midst was Santa Claus himself!

MAN WANTED

By EDGAR A. GUEST

What is needed, we are told, is a most forgetful man, a vigilant and bold. Who will do the best he can. High in office, without fear. True to country he'll remain. Though he knows within a year He will have to run again.

What is needed, so they say, Is a man who will forget. That with favor he must pay. Many a big little debt; One a steadfast course to steer. When the need for that is plain, Though he knows within a year He will have to run again.

What is needed, so they tell, Is a leader, unafraid, Who'll remember to do well. And forget how votes are made. One who sees his duty clear. And will do it, shine or rain, Though he knows within a year He will have to run again.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CURIOSITY

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

To man's passion for curiosity we owe an enormous debt. Just think how much poorer the world would have been had not Edison, Ford, Franklin, Fulton, Columbus, the Wright brothers, and a host of others been wholeheartedly curious.

There are those who boast of their business. They have no time away from their desk—and all too many take that desk home with them. Their imagination becomes clogged. They have little or no curiosity.

Curiosity is the key to an endless variety of joys and successes. To want to know more, learn more, see more, and experience more, is evidence of aliveness.

It was undoubtedly the curiosity of Columbus that led him to want to take the blind journey that he felt would convince people that the world was actually round.

To the curiosity of men we owe most of the metals that have been mined from the ground, and hardly a year passes but that some new discovery is made. All valuable inventions are largely the result of curiosity.

The growing, progressive people are those who, in the words of Stevenson, have the desire to "give themselves over to random provocations." My newspaper tells me that the late President Roosevelt devoted an hour or so nearly every day to his stamp collection! Handicapped as he was physically, this diversion undoubtedly rested that active and over-all mind of his.

None of us could go far forward without having this great quality of being curious. Never should it be discouraged in a child, for it is then that the seeds of initiative are sown.

Inventors, scientists, discoverers, and pioneers all have this godly gift of curiosity to drive them on to big achievements. Without it they would have little incentive.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Quiet and Contentment."

DECORATIONS REQUIRE CARE

Leaves and berries from the home garden for Christmas decorations may be cut before the weather becomes severely cold and put in a cool damp place. Sprinkle them occasionally to keep them moist until they are ready to use. It is the excessive heat and dryness of the average living room that causes leaves and berries to drop. Just before bringing the branches into the room where they are to be used, cut the stems and place them in water or moist moss.

Peter the Great of Russia could not read nor write until he had been czar five years.

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

We have anticipated our regular publication day, to lay before our readers so much of the Message of the President of the U. States, as refers to our Foreign Relations—which is all we can find room for to-day, as the message is of very great length. The remainder will be given in our next issue.

It is considered at Washington a "War Message." The passage of the Oregon bill of last session may certainly be anticipated, notwithstanding all the conservatism of the Senate. — The state of the question, as prescribed in the message, is sufficiently alarming—as the negotiation, it appears, has been broken off by the British Minister. This, taken in connection with the President's recommendation to dissolve the compact of joint occupancy, to extend our laws over the settlers, and establish military posts on the route, an overland mail, etc., would seem to indicate trouble at the end of the year's notice. What then is to be done? "We must fight, back out, or submit to an arbitration."—Our government says they will not "back out," neither will they arbitrate—what, then, is the alternative?

Shriver — Clarke — On the 29th ult., by Rev. E. S. Johnston, Mr. George Isaac Shriver to Miss N. Nancy Clarke, both of Adams county.

Schriver — Harnish. — On the 6th inst., by Rev. D. W. Wolf, Mr. John C. Schriver, of Cumberland township, to Miss Sarah Harnish, of Franklin township.

Alms House Appointments — The Directors of the Poor, on Monday last, reappointed the old officers, viz: Steward, Jonas Johns; Physician, Dr. J. W. C. O'Neal; Counsel, J. C. Neely, Esq.; Clerk, H. A. Pickering, Esq., and Treasurer, Jacob Benner.

General News:—Minister Washburne writes from Paris, that, according to his information, the French have been beaten at all points and the end is apparently near at hand.

On Friday five hundred French Canadians passed through Harrisburg for France via New York. They came from the Red River country, in the Northwest, and go to join the French army.

The Atlantic Cables—It appears now that we have to be content for some time to come with the limited and imperfect telegraphic communications with Europe afforded by the French cable, which has been the only one working for nearly two weeks past. The injury to the English cables laid from Heart's Content, Newfoundland, to Valentia Bay, Ireland, is serious, and the repairs will be difficult.

The cost of the three cables has been about $19,000,000.

Summary of War News:—Continued German Victories — Monday, Dec. 12—Great alarm was felt at Tours on account of the rapid approach of the Germans, and the Provisional government had removed to Bordeaux, fearing an attack on Tours.

Iron-clads have been ordered by the French government to repair immediately to Havre to assist in the defence of the city.

It has been announced in the North German Parliament that King William accepts the title of "Emperor of Germany."

The French military officers, now prisoners of war in Germany, protest against the restoration of the Emperor Bonaparte.

Improvement—Miss Harriet McCreary intends to put up a two-story brick front dwelling on the property recently purchased by her from Mr. John Culp, on Baltimore street.

Sale—The Gettysburg Building Association sold the property lately owned by George E. Kitzmiller to Louis Strouse for $700 cash.

GAY ENTRANCE IS EFFECTIVE AT CHRISTMAS

The entrance to the home is an appropriate place to start decorating with lights, color and greenery to help make this peace-time Christmas a merry one. Start by painting the door red, green, blue or some other special holiday color.

If that seems drastic, cover the door with heavy cardboard or lightweight composition wall board, cut to fit the outside of the door when it is closed. Doors with raised mouldings around panels will require narrow wooden strips beneath the edges of the board to make a snug fit. Thin brads, used sparingly around the edges, will hold both strips and board in place. Holes are made for doorknob or latch and keyhole.

The door, illustrated, is painted blue with silver stars of various sizes, cut from metallic paper or flattened tin cans and cemented to the surface. Evergreen roping, made from small strips of mixed greens tied or wired to a stout rope, is fastened up the sides and across the top of the doorframe to contribute greenery and conceal the wires of several strings of white and blue lights to make the silver stars twinkle.

Day and Night Attraction
Such a door is attractive day and night. It may be painted red with gold stars or vice-versa with white or white-and-orange lights in the roping. Red lights would make the greenery appear brown.

The path from the sidewalk to the door can be brightened and made inviting with lighted ropes of greenery along each side, held eighteen to twenty-four inches above the ground on stakes spaced five to six feet apart. Paint the stakes green, red or gold and, where the ropes are fastened to each one, wire a large red oilcloth bow. Oilcloth bows can be more easily folded and sewed than they can be tied into shape. Wire them into place. They keep their shape and bright color despite rain and snow.

Evergreen roping and strings of colored lights also are a good combination to use to outline doorways, porches, porch lattice work and fences close to the house. The lights, prominent at night, give way to the more solid greenery in the daytime.

Window boxes are readily turned into decorative holiday high lights. Plant them with small trees, each trimmed a different color, or pile the box high with Christmas greens accented with clusters of fruit and berries. The prominent, well balanced locations of most window boxes recommend them to the decorator.

Lighting Effects
Green lights, concealed back of the trees in the window box illustrated, would flood the large green wreath in the window and make it appear much greener. The dark silhouette of the trees, if desired, may be pierced with small vari-colored lights.

Post lanterns at the gate, entrance steps or driveway may have the regular bulb replaced with a red, blue or green one. These colors, used in limited quantity, are not very bright and should be bolstered with a string of multicolored lights studding a swag of greenery and cones tied to the post at the lantern bracket. The swag of balsam or other evergreen branches, a few large cones wired fast, and a red ribbon bow will give to post lantern an unmistakable holiday appearance.

Outdoor trees trimmed with many different colored lamps always are gay and cheerful. Other schemes employ only two or three colors blending from one into another. All red, green or blue lamps around the base of a tree are mixed gradually with white until the top of the tree is all white, topped by a shiny white star. Many different color combinations may be worked out this way.

Green lights increase the greenness of trees and other green foliage near them; red lamps make green wreaths, roping and trees appear brownish; white lamps produce a bright sparkle accenting all other colors; blue produces a hushed appearance; orange and yellow have a mellow glow.

Washington, Dec. 10 (P)—The House Expenditures Committee assailed Friday as "a gigantic and unworkable proposal" the administration's so-called "full employment" bill passed by the Senate.

Five Good Revenue Crops
Which crops would you grow for revenue purposes if your selections were limited to five? This question in substance was asked recently by a reader who operates a family-sized farm within 10 miles of an industrial town and 60 miles from a large city.

Of course, the answer must always be qualified in the light of suitable soils, available help, transportation facilities and other local and personal factors. But waving these in favor of generalities and considering the matter on a basis of recent experiences and future prospects, the editor made the following recommendations, along with a few arguments in favor of his choices:

Strawberries — Acreage of this widely popular fruit has declined drastically in relation to increasing population of potential consumers over the last ten years. There are excellent opportunities for supplying markets in a radius of 75 miles of the grower, particularly emphasizing direct sales to consumers by the crate for canning purposes. Surveys show that for several years approximately four out of every five urban housewives interviewed stated that they would have purchased from two to four more crates of strawberries for immediate table use and canning had they been able to obtain them.

Rhubarb — This vegetable cannot be grown in the South, hence there is no market competition against locally grown rhubarb. Rarely are there sufficient supplies offered in town and city markets to meet consumer requirements. The principal key to profitable culture of rhubarb lies in marketing vigorous, well colored stalks strictly fresh. No other food crop produces so much revenue per acre, due to the heavy bearing habits of this plant.

Sweet Potatoes—From 1905 to 1910 we grew approximately 37 pounds of sweet potatoes per capita of total population. Production has been declining in the last few years and since 1940 we have produced only 26.6 pounds per person each year. If high grade tubers are grown, of varieties consumers demand, a profitable market in late fall and early winter can be found for this crop.

Bramble Fruits—No other group of food crops are so generally under-produced as blackberries, raspberries and dewberries. Southern crops move to market and are exhausted by the time locally grown berries are ripe. To supply local demands for table use and canning is an industry that can be developed into a sustained source of annual income. There is no town or city consumer who is not a potential customer for more of these fruits. The grower's task is to produce them and then locate these buyers.

Peaches—Most peaches reaching urban markets are harvested before they are ripe and shipped north from southern orchards. Over the last ten years consumers have been compelled to limit purchases because of insufficient supplies and inferior quality fruit. We are growing around 20 to 23 pounds of peaches per capita when there is a potential consumer market for at least 40 to 50 pounds. Again the key seems to lie in offering consumers high quality, locally grown, tree-ripened peaches, against which there is no serious competition from more distant regions.

Do you have five better choices of revenue-producing crops? If so, the editor will appreciate your opinions.

HARDINESS OF SPRUCE OR FIR BEST FOR XMAS

Although the average city dweller may not be interested in the correct name of his Christmas tree he will want one which will retain its beauty during the holiday season. To make the proper choice he should know the characteristics of the various kinds offered in the market.

Most Christmas trees offered are either spruces or firs. Both kinds are satisfactory. The balsam fir is most easily recognized owing to its bushy growth and the color scheme of the needle-like leaves. They are dark green above and silvery beneath. The rich fragrance of the needles is another distinctive feature, and so are the gray-green stems. Balsam fir yields medicinal Canada balsam which seeps from the injured bark as a liquid having the consistency of glycerin.

Older trees of spruce and fir which carry cones are readily distinguished by the position of the cones. Those of the fir are carried upright, while the cones of spruce hang down, at least when mature.

Tests Reveal the Type

There are two other ways to distinguish between these two popular Christmas trees. The first is to twist a single leaf between the forefinger and the thumb. If there are four sharp edges to the leaf it comes from a spruce. If the shape is rather flat, showing only two edges, it is from a fir. The next test is made on the young stem from which the needles have fallen. If it is distinctly rough with a sharp little cone remaining where the leaf was, it is a spruce. Firs on the other hand, have comparatively smooth stems. The spruce leaves are rather bristly and densely arranged around the stem. Those of firs are less dense, softer and usually a little longer.

Most people know pines well enough to tell them apart from other evergreens, mostly because of their long needles. Occasionally, red cedars are offered by some farmer who is clearing his land for cultivation. Their leaves are dark in color and decidedly prickly. They have one good feature, and that is the fact that they retain their needles well, even if kept in a hot, dry room. They have no cones, but bear small bluish-white berries.

Hemlocks Shed Quickly
Hemlocks are graceful but not suitable because they drop their foliage so quickly that nothing but a skeleton of the branches remains after a few days. The Douglas fir, which is native to the west, is quite acceptable. It has bright green leaves of coarser appearance than the others, but small cones often add a special touch of beauty.

The pot-grown tree offered by nurserymen usually is Norway spruce, which is a good Christmas tree. The plants may be moved into the garden when spring arrives to give a living Christmas tree for years to come.

Other evergreens are called upon to provide material for wreaths and other decorations. Branches of arbutus, yew, leucothoe, huckleberry, smilax, bluegum and mistletoe often are used. Holly, however, is the favorite material, particularly if it carries its own rich red berries. Often other berries are used as substitutes, with artificial ones being called upon to help out with the shortage. Mountain laurel and groundpine are two other favorite materials for draping the entrance to the home. Prepared leaves from various other plants, cones, dyed grasses and seedpods often add certain finishing touches for a gay effect.

It must be borne in mind that most of these materials are a fire hazard after a few days in a warm room, and their use around open fireplaces is fraught with danger.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear son and brother, Richard R. Wenschhof, who passed away one year ago today, December 10th, 1944.

In a little snow white casket,
Nestled beneath the flowers,
Lies a pure and stainless lily
Such a little while was ours.

Oh! the hours we sat and watched your little face;
Until God whispered, it's too late.
We thought you could not leave our home

But God wanted you for His own.
By his loving father and mother,
brother, sisters and Aunt Mary

BOY TAKEN FOR CONVICT IS SHOT

Belleville, Pa., Dec. 10 (P)—Clare W. Young, 17, of nearby Milesburg, was recovering today from a bullet wound which Sheriff John Galaida said was inflicted by a guard at the Rockview penitentiary who mistook the boy for one of ten prisoners who escaped recently.

The sheriff said Harry Whiteman, off duty at the time of the shooting, shot the youth in the back. The sheriff and District Attorney Musser W. Gettig were assisting the state police in an investigation of the accident.

Meanwhile Dr. J. W. Claudy, superintendent of the penitentiary, said all but two of the prisoners were either back at the prison, or enroute there.

Charles Oden, 28, of Allegheny county, was the last to be picked up, his arrest occurring last night at Pittsburgh. Three others were arrested in Missouri, two were picked up near State College, another was arrested at Scranton, and a seventh gave himself up at Butler.

Hearings for four of the men, identified by Dr. Claudy as Theodore Funkhouser, 22, of Butler; Lawrence Shope, 27, of Lackawanna county; Ira Kenner, 27, of Mercer county; and Manley P. Parks, 21, of Bradford county, will be held today before Justice of the Peace Abe Houser, at nearby Peru.

NO DEMOCRATS TO GET GOP AID

Chicago, Dec. 10 (P)—Anti-administration Democrats had notice today from GOP National Chairman Herbert Brownell that they can't expect any help from the Republicans in the 1946 campaign.

Brownell told his colleagues of the GOP National committee in a conference that ended here Saturday night the time had come for them to put all their weight behind their own party candidates instead of supporting Democrats in doubtful areas.

In the past, he said there had been a tendency to back Democrats who voted with the Republicans in Congress on major issues. But he left no doubt that the Republicans are out to win party control of at least the House, and he noted that the anti-administration Democrats never vote with the GOP on any such test of strength.

Some party leaders denied, however, that this new line means the Republicans won't go along with the anti-administration Democrats in the informal, working coalition that has been effective in both Houses at times.

BALKAN REPORT MAY HOLD KEY TO CONFERENCE

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Dec. 10 (P)—A special investigation made for Secretary of State Byrnes of political conditions in Romania and Bulgaria may hold one of the keys to success of the approaching Big Three foreign ministers meeting in Moscow.

Results of the survey, made by Mark Ethridge, Louisville, Ky., publisher, are due to be released before Byrnes leaves for the Russian capital on Wednesday. He will make the trip by plane in order to arrive for the Saturday opening session.

According to reports of diplomatic officials, Ethridge's findings make two main points: (1) That democracy and political freedom do not at the moment exist in Russian-dominated Romania and Bulgaria, (2) that there are no insurmountable blocks in the way of a settlement with Russia of the Balkans issue.

This latter point particularly is tied in directly with the plans for the Big Three Moscow gathering. It was Russian disagreement with the United States and Britain over Romania and Bulgaria and how to write peace treaties for them which blasted the London foreign ministers council into failure last September.

If it now proves possible to come to some agreement on how Russia can have "friendly" governments in the Balkans without making them into puppet regimes, a solution will be at hand for one of the most critical issues involving the Big Three powers.

It is to attack such issues on a broad front that Byrnes proposed the Moscow conference at this time, immediately before the formal organization of the United Nations at London.

There is apparently well founded speculation here that the three foreign ministers may move or from Moscow to London to participate in the United Nations launching.

There, if results are good at Moscow, they may seek to revive the five power foreign ministers council to consider such difficult question on Wednesday. He will make the trip by plane in order to arrive for the Saturday opening session.

Schoolman Shot By Eager Hunter

Carlisle, Pa., Dec. 10 (P)—John B. Kennedy, superintendent of Kingstons borough schools, was in the Carlisle hospital today recovering from tions as the organization of peace in Asia and the improvement of Allied controls in Germany.

Sheriff W. D. Smith, of Perry county, said the school official was shot by Scott Weibly, of Saville township, who told Game Warden Joseph Chetlinski that he saw something moving in the brush and fired. No charges have been filed against Weibly.

a gunshot wound in the right arm that occurred while he was hunting deer.

RADIO PROGRAMS

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Christmas Eve tradition of lighting the national tree on the White House lawn and broadcasting a seasonal message to the nation, inaugurated by President Roosevelt in 1935, is to be carried on by his successor.

Thus, there already has been scheduled for the networks December 24 a 15-minute broadcast in which President Truman is to speak. Time has been fixed for 5:15 p. m.

The Fourth Mrs. Baker

Chapter 24

(Tuesday 5:58 a. m. to 6:45 a. m.)

She didn't know whether she had slept or not before she was disturbed again. Shadowy dreams and elusive thoughts were blended together imperceptibly. She was at the door in a moment.

"It's Detective Horowitz, ma'am. You're to dress right away and come with me, Inspector's orders."

"All right," she acquiesced and glanced at the clock on the night table. It was six o'clock. Events had taken on a nightmarish quality.

Shoes and stockings. Where were they. Her mind didn't seem to work. What had happened now? Oh, God, did this mean the end? Did it mean arrest? Then it all seemed quite clear to her. Alma—poor dazed Alma—had said something that made the Inspector believe he had sufficient evidence to arrest her.

She stood in her slip and surveyed the rack of dresses. Will they send me more clothes in jail? Some queer practical turn made her choose a sheer black woolen dress, simply made, in case she had to wear it a long time. The very fact of choosing it for that reason calmed her somewhat. Her fingers moved efficiently to dust powder over her face and smooth red paste on her lips. She didn't comb her hair—it took so long since she had worn her hair high on her head—but she checked her purse for a comb. I'll have plenty of time in the Bastille. It was astounding how one could accept incredible situations and go on doing perfectly ordinary things. She chose a black hat with a sash that fell to her shoulders in the back and covered her hair. Then a loose black suede coat—gloves—purse—

She looked into the mirrored door to the dressing room. "Don't be a coward," she commanded her reflection.

Horowitz was waiting at the door. Two uniformed officers were in the salon. She stopped halfway across the room and said to them, "You'll find food in the ice box and Cook will be here soon to make coffee."

"Thank you, ma'am," said one and they both looked at her solemnly as if they knew she wouldn't be back.

Horowitz took her arm outside the apartment house and guided her to a police car. Whatever hope she had had evaporated when she got in and the detective followed her. She did not even ask where they were going. She already knew the answer.

The young officer who was driving turned the car into the park. This couldn't be the way to headquarters! She stole a glance at Horowitz. He was peering intently ahead.

It was a gray, murky dawn. The air was cool and damp and a fog hung over the park. She thought fleetingly that it would be nice to walk through the park in the early morning. She had never done it and now perhaps—

Abruptly the car halted and there were some people standing around watched over by blue uniformed figures. Horowitz got out and helped her alight.

Dread so deep and black that it held her nerves paralyzed grew and spread within her. Unconsciously she lifted her chin and put her arm through the detective's before he had grasped hers. Together they went across the pavement and ascended a narrow stone path. The man went first and she tread after him.

"It's on up there," he directed Horowitz.

It was like walking slowly into doom.

The detective was puffing a bit when they reached a rocky ledge. Several men were standing there and she recognized Inspector Venable among them. He came forward when he saw them.

"I wanted you for identification before the body was moved," he said.

A man with a camera pushed by them and went on down the path. "Who is it?" breathed Julia. She could taste horror in her mouth and she smelled it in the thick damp air of the fog.

"Moore, I think." His eyes found Horowitz. "You should have prepared her," he told him and Julia was somehow strengthened by the anger in his voice.

"You didn't give orders, Inspector."

MARTIN WANTS SPEEDY ACTION ON BRIDGE SUIT

Harrisburg, Dec. 10 (AP)—Attorney General James H. Duff had instructions from Governor Martin today to "act speedily" in preventing delay of the state's plan to purchase and free ten toll bridges across Pennsylvania streams.

Martin directed the action after former Attorney General William A. Schnader filed a suit in Dauphin county court on behalf of the Peoples Bridge company of Harrisburg, asking that the state be enjoined from completing arrangements to buy the Sunbury-span for $650,000.

"I regret exceedingly that anyone would attempt to interfere with the speedy and orderly freeing of the toll bridges of Pennsylvania," said Martin when informed of the suit.

He added that "I have instructed the attorney general to act speedily and to get a final determination of this suit as soon as possible."

Had Reached Agreement

Under the bill passed by the 1945 Legislature the commonwealth was given authority to spend $7,000,000 in freeing the ten bridges.

Highway Secretary John U. Shroyer announced that he had reached an amicable agreement with the Sunbury bridge owners to purchase that span as part of the program.

On Thursday the Peoples Bridge company asked the Dauphin county court to halt this proposed sale until such time as it had been determined that all the bridges could be purchased for $7,000,000.

Shroyer at the time the suit was filed said he would "fight this action with all the vigor and power I possess."

The state, through Shroyer, offered to purchase the Peoples bridge for $250,000. The company, through Schnader, asked $1,700,000.

The Big Inch oil line from Texas to the East coast is powered by more than 100,000 horsepower in electric motors.

Mountains that grew Overnight

Those mountains of the war years were higher than anyone knew—but the Reading Made the Grade and is Prepared for Peace-Time Demands

Freight service now relieved of its war burden, is literally "champing at the bit" to set the pace in quick transportation in connection with peacetime activities. Extensive improvements are being made in the Reading's fleet of freight locomotives. Ten new Diesel locomotives have been placed in long haul service and the construction of thirty powerful steam engines in the Shops at Reading is well under way. Five of these are already in daily service.

Passenger service will continue to function with its reputation for clocklike regularity—but it must be kept in mind that the Reading, like many other Railroads, is still confronted with the great obligation of bringing America's fighting forces back home. To give them as much travel comfort as can be spared from other essential needs of the community will require the use of the passenger resources of the Reading to a greater extent than during the height of the conflict. It is not expected that these heavy troop movements will taper off materially until some time in 1946.

In the meantime, the Reading has been active in overcoming the wear of war years and its track rehabilitation has reached the point where it is making the first step in increasing the speeds of some of its passenger trains. With the change of time effective on Sunday, December 2d, the "Crusader" and other popular trains between Philadelphia and New York are running from five to eight minutes faster than heretofore.
